

ASK ACCUSED CONGRESSMEN'S NAMES

LA FOLLETTE IS HELD ENTITLED TO QUIT RACE

Judge Pugh of Dickinson, in Decision Here, Says He May Quit in N. D.

NEW APPEAL IS TAKEN

Supreme Court Immediately Is Asked to Overrule Judge's Decision

The Supreme Court late today affirmed Judge Pugh's decision. This means LaFollette's name will not go on the ballot.

District Judge Thomas Pugh of Dickinson here today decided that Robert M. LaFollette's name should not go on the March 18 presidential primary ballot. Immediately attorney for R. A. Kinzer, seeking to keep LaFollette's name on the ballot, served notice of an appeal to the supreme court and that request would be made of the court to hear the appeal today.

The alternative writ of mandamus, issued by District Judge F. T. Lumbke in the Morton district court directing the secretary of state to incorporate LaFollette's name with other candidates for the presidency, was quashed by Judge Pugh. His decision followed a hearing in Mandan last night.

Judge Pugh, announcing his decision verbally, held that sufficient proof that LaFollette is a candidate for the presidency had not been produced by attorneys for R. A. Kinzer, seeking to keep LaFollette's name on the ballot as contemplated by section 910 of the code, that even though the statute does not provide a method for withdrawal of a man from control over his own candidacy to some extent and may withdraw, that the Secretary of State acted in good faith in striking LaFollette's name from the ballot on the order of LaFollette.

Judge Pugh heard the case in Mandan last night after Judge Lumbke had been ordered to hear it immediately or to get another judge.

Appeal Is Heard
The supreme court heard arguments of Attorney-General Shaffer, Joseph Coghlan and F. O. Hollstrom in the appeal from Judge Pugh's decision, continuing the arguments through the usual noon hour recess, and the court is expected to formulate its decision during the afternoon.

There is danger now, according to secretary of State Hall, that delay in printing the ballots would make it impossible for some county precincts to be reached should a severe storm tie up road traffic for two or three days.

Record Time Made

The disposition of the case is believed to make a record. Judge Pugh heard arguments in Mandan last night. He gave his decision about 10:30. Appeal papers were filed immediately and soon the supreme court granted the appeal and set a hearing, continuing arguments after noon, completing them about 12:30 p. m.

Today was the third time the case had been before the supreme court within a few days.

SEEKS DAMAGE FOR ATTACK

Georgia Woman Suing Son of Coca Cola King

Decatur, Ga., Mar. 7.—Reading of documentary evidence by the defense in the trial of suit for $100,000 damages brought by Mrs. Sarah Byfield, beauty contest winner, against Walter T. Candler, son of Asa G. Candler, Atlanta capitalist, was expected to begin with the opening of court today.

The suit resulted from an alleged attack upon Mrs. Byfield by Candler early on the morning of July 17, 1922, in Mrs. Byfield's stateroom on a liner en route to Europe. Attorneys for the plaintiff rested yesterday after Clyde Byfield, automobile dealer and clubman, his wife and two physicians had testified and a mass of documentary evidence had been introduced.

The most sensational development of the trial yesterday was the admission by Byfield that while on the stand that approximately within 10 minutes after he had discovered Mr. Candler in his wife's stateroom for $25,000. Late in testimony, he said, Candler exchanged the check for $25,000 cash and a check for $25,000 and obtained a signed statement from Byfield exonerating him from all blame.

Mr. Candler later stopped payment on the note, Byfield testified, and he further said he had signed the statement exonerating Candler because he was "afraid Candler's friends were about to attack him."

STATE'S GRAND FORKS FLOUR MILL LOSS OVER $400,000, INCLUDING ALL INTEREST, SINCE OPERATION BEGAN

Loss Set Out by Accountant Is $325,998.60 with $75,227.35 Additional Interest Not Placed by Lund in Making His Report to the State Board of Auditors—Gain in The Last Five Months of 1923

The North Dakota State Mill and Elevator at Grand Forks had a total operating loss, including interest on capital, of $325,998.60 on December 31, 1923, according to a report of O. B. Lund, accountant, to the state board of auditors. The report of Mr. Lund includes the Bishop, Brissman report up to last July 31 and verification of it, together with additions up to December 31. In addition Mr. Lund says $75,227.35 not included in the loss is due on construction bonds.

The mill sustained a net operating loss of 48 cents a barrel prior to August 1, 1923 and changed this into a profit of 10 cents a barrel for the five-month period after August 1, but, the report says, "while the milling profits show a substantial gain during the five months covered by this examination, it has not been sufficient to carry the reserves and interest charges on capital."

The loss, as shown by the report to the board of auditors, which is composed of the Attorney-General, State Auditor and Secretary of State, was $230,516.57 for the period from October 23, 1922, when the mill began operations, to July 31, 1923, and $95,652.03 for the period from August 1, 1923, to December 31, 1923.

"During the period covered by this report (the last five months of 1923) the mill operated about 95 percent time," says the audit report. "On the basis of 3,000 barrels per day, it exceeded capacity output. On the basis of full time, however, the records show that for the month of December the mill turned out 100,841 barrels of flour and Semolina in 30 days, or an average of 3,360 barrels per day. This was explained by the mill superintendent as the results of making a few changes in the machinery, increasing the capacity of the mill about 10 percent."

There is an excellent accounting system in the state mill, the auditor reported.

REASONS FOR DISMISSAL OF CASE SET OUT

Not Sufficient Evidence To Convict Mrs. Ursula Smith, Officials Hold

POISON CHARGE MADE

Minot, N. D., March 7.—Reasons for dismissal of the murder charge against Mrs. Ursula Smith of Grandville, formerly charged with first degree murder in connection with the death of her divorced husband, John Smith, last April 9, was fully outlined in papers filed in the case at Devils Lake before Judge W. J. Kneeshaw, copies of which were received in Minot recently. Judge Kneeshaw has signed an order of dismissal in which he states that it appears to the satisfaction of the court that there is grave doubt as to the guilt of the defendant and that no unprejudiced jury would convict her upon the testimony which the state has to offer.

"This is an action brought on the charge of murder in the first degree, the information alleging that the defendant poisoned one John Smith with strychnine," says State Attorney Albert Weber of Tower in his reasons for dismissal of the case. "Ursula Smith was formerly the wife of the deceased. An analysis of the contents of the stomach of the deceased by Professor G. A. Abbott of the state university disclosed 13.55 grains of strychnine. A small quantity of black coffee in a cup standing on the kitchen stove at the time the man was found dead disclosed an equally high percentage of the same poison."

ITALIAN TO MEET FIRPO

Heavyweight Boxers to Battle in South America

Buenos Aires, Mar. 7.—Erniglo Spulla, Italian heavyweight champion, and Luis Anzell Firpo, South American title holder, rested today in preparation for their 15-round bout tonight.

DEMOCRATS OF SLOPE STAND FOR MCADOO

Mandan, N. D., Mar. 7.—Fifty Missouri Slope Democrats, meeting in Mandan in a conference presided over by State chairman J. E. Campbell of Mandan, adopted resolutions endorsing the candidacy of William McAdoo "on account of his progressive policies, and ability to promote the interests and welfare of the general public." Mrs. E. Regan of Mandan was secretary.

"We feel that nothing has been proven at recent investigations at Washington, against his character or integrity that should weaken our faith in his outstanding ability and honesty," the resolution continued.

The conference also denounced "the action of the Northwest Democratic organization at Minot for failing to place the name of Mr. McAdoo on the ballot, after having twice endorsed his candidacy at their meetings in Minot."

"We feel," the resolutions continued, "that this failure to act is a direct blow to the interests of the railroad employees of the state, and particularly those belonging to the Minot club whose interest in the Minot Democratic club was primarily directed by a desire to promote the candidacy of Mr. McAdoo in North Dakota."

The conference endorsed the candidacy of R. B. Murphy for national committeeman and the Valley City state of delegates. The resolutions committee was J. E. Williams, C. Jahneke and L. A. Winter.

IMMEDIATE CUT IN TAXES NOW BEING PUSHED

Treasury Department Would Have Congress Settle 25 Per Cent Reduction

HOLDING UP CASH

Income Taxpayers Holding Back Awaiting the Action of Congress

WASHINGTON, Mar. 7.—(By the A. P.)—Opposition developed in both houses of Congress today to proposals for immediate action to reduce by 25 percent all personal income taxes payable this year.

Chairman Green of the house ways and means committee changed plans announced yesterday and in view of the opposition decided to delay asking the committee to remove the reduction provisions from the revenue bill and incorporate in a joint resolution.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—The house revenue bill came under the detailed scrutiny of the senate financial committee yesterday following its completion of preliminary work including receipt of a report by treasury officials of the estimated effect of the measure on government revenue.

Chief interest in the situation, however, shifted back to the house due to Chairman Green's proposal that the ways and means committee take steps looking to removal from the tax bill of the provision for a 25 percent reduction of income taxes payable this year and its incorporation in a joint resolution which could be acted on before March 15 when the first installments are due.

Such action has been asked by the Treasury department with the explanation that taxpayers are holding back their usual payments in the hope of obtaining the reduction with the result that revenue receipts have dropped considerably. Adoption of the reduction measure before March 15 also would eliminate the necessity of making refunds on taxes that would be required if the proposal should not be enacted until after that date.

Secretary Mellon had expected to appear before the committee today but plans were changed and it was announced he would appear next week.

MAIL SACK THEFT CHARGE

Three Beach Youths Are Being Tried in Federal Court

Trial of Tom McNeese, Waldo Nudick and Arthur Tuttle on charges of stealing mail bags near Beach, their home, was on the calendar of federal court here today. Mail, it is charged by the government, was extracted, but no money taken.

The case against R. C. Rosen, former local merchant, charged with concealing assets in bankruptcy, will be tried Monday.

Federal Judge Cant of Duluth, who heard the case in which former Senator P. J. McCumber sued the American Alliance Insurance Co. for $5,000 for losses incurred when buildings on land claimed to be owned by him burned, took the matter under advisement.

Defendants of the three Beach boys maintain that the mail sacks were taken by a bunch of young men in hoodlum spirit at Beach, that there was no attempt at theft, that nothing was taken and that the defendants were not among the youths who did take the mail sacks. One of the defendants is 17 years old.

Evidence was introduced during the morning by the government in an effort to prove that the defendants were responsible for the theft.

Lisbon Creamery Wins Prize

Grand Forks, N. D., March 7.—The Lisbon creamery won first place in the creamery butter contest held in connection with the convention here of the North Dakota Dairywomen's association. Its score was 92.1-2.

The Midland Products company of Fargo and the Minot Dairy tied for second place with a score of 92.1-4 each.

Mrs. W. R. Williams of Bottineau won first on dairy butter with a score of 94.1-2. G. L. Farms of Royer and Sigurd Lund of Arnegard, tied for second place with a score of 94.1-4 each.

Worthington Bros. of Grand Forks bought the entire butter exhibit at the convention, including the winning premium, according to W. F. Reynolds, secretary of the dairywomen's association.

The place of the 1925 convention of the dairywomen will be decided later by the board of directors. Devils Lake and Mandan have been mentioned as contenders.

AID DAUGHERTY

Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty has retained former United States Senator George E. Chamberlain of Oregon to defend him in his hearing before a senatorial committee. The attorney general has demanded a chance to tell his own story of his alleged connection with the Sinclair Oil interests.

Former Representative Paul Howland of Ohio will assist Senator Chamberlain in defending Daugherty. Howland now practices law in Cleveland.

Kiwanis Gives Community House

H. Kelsey representing the county.

"DEMONS" MAY MEET MANDAN

Likely to Clash at Mandan Tonight in Tournament

Bismarck high school basketball team drew a "bye" in the drawings at Mandan this morning for the district basketball tournament.

There were seven teams entered and Bismarck did not draw an opponent. The pairings were: Ashley vs Mandan and Linton vs New Salem, to play this afternoon; Wilton vs Steele to play tonight.

Bismarck plays the winner of the Ashley-Mandan game. Since Mandan was favored to win over Ashley it was more than likely that Bismarck and Mandan high school teams would meet tonight in Mandan.

M. H. Hodge, head of the physical training department of the Fargo high school and Ted Greenfield, captain of the 1924 team of the North Dakota Agricultural College basketball team are the officials for the third district basketball tournament.

HORSE GOES IN RIVER

Linton, N. D., March 7.—A party of Winona people narrowly escaped death in the Missouri river Thursday of last week when they broke through the ice while going to Ft. Yates. Joe S. Wald, Adam Bossert and Mrs. Johanna Jahner and son were in the party and were going to get another son of Mrs. Jahner's who has been broken arm. The party were driving a team and wagon and, when well out in the middle of the river, the team went through the ice. Despite the danger of more ice breaking away and letting the whole party go down, they worked for an hour or so and got the team out.

HOUSE DIVIDED ON PROPOSALS IN BONUS BILL

Paid-up Insurance Feature Exclusive of Others Is Stumbling Block

WILL REPORT A BILL

Chairman May Introduce Bill Passed at Last Session and Vetoed

WASHINGTON, Mar. 7.—(By the A. P.)—Paid-up insurance was decided upon as a provision of the soldiers bonus bill today by the house ways and means committee.

Provisions of the bill passed last session and vetoed by President Harding for vocational training and farm or home aid were definitely eliminated but an option of cash payment still is pending.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—The house ways and means committee faced the task of drafting a soldier bonus bill today with its membership divided over two propositions.

Rep. Bacharach, Republican, New Jersey, stood firmly for a bill providing only for a paid-up insurance policy payment but several members of both parties were equally determined that an option of full cash payment be incorporated.

Chairman Green had planned to have the bill ready to be reported to the house by tomorrow but the disagreement over its form is expected to result in a delay of a day or two at least.

If the plans now before the committee fail of adoption Mr. Green said he would propose the bill passed at the last session and vetoed by President Harding. It provided for cash payment to veterans not entitled to more than $500 adjusted service certificates, vocational training or farm and home aid.

DAUGHERTY AND CURT IS NAMED IN TELEGRAMS

Kansas Senator Is Revealed as Mysterious "Principal" of Messages

REASSURED McLEAN

Messages Said That Efforts Would be Made to Prevent Him Being Called

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Attorney General Daugherty and Senator Curtis of Kansas, assistant Republican leader of the Senate, were quoted in testimony before the oil committee today as having sent reassuring messages to Edward B. McLean in Florida after the publisher became one of the central figures in the oil disclosures.

The testimony was given by Ira E. Bennett, an editorial writer for McLean's Washington Post. He said that in both cases the messages were conveyed through him to his employer. The Daugherty message, the witness declared, was sent on February 14 the day McLean was summoned to Washington by the oil committee. In it the Attorney-General, he declared, would help all he could to keep McLean off the witness stand and gave assurances that the publisher need not worry.

Senator Curtis, Bennett said, was the mysterious personage referred to as "principal" in a telegram sent to McLean on January 29. He declared the Senator had assured him that it would "turn out all right" but under cross-examination he said that what he had meant was that he told Curtis that McLean was "all right."

Committee members pressed the witness for an explanation as to whether part of the message did not refer to President Coolidge and he said that some of it did in fact relate to impressions he got from the President's general conference on that date with the Washington correspondents. But he insisted that "principal" was Senator Curtis.

MORE MESSAGES READ

Chicago, March 7.—Arthur E. Bennett, author of the "principal" message in the McLean file of telegrams, was questioned today by the oil committee.

"Apples" in the cipher telegrams is the code name for Albert B. Fall, Bennett said. Bennett insisted, however, that he did not have a copy of the code and did not recall the meaning of some of the messages he had sent to Florida.

Bennett said that "H. D." in his telegram read into the record yesterday referred to Attorney-General Daugherty.

This message was sent on February 14 at 12:04 p. m. to McLean at Palm Beach and said:

"Will have conference with H. D. before 1 o'clock."

In the "Count" message McLean was asked not to worry.

"All that is possible to do will be done by us," said the telegram as read to the committee—you know what to depend on.

Previously Bennett had said the code message referred to Wilton J. Lambert, counsel for McLean and added that Lambert had given him the same message for the publisher "strange as that may seem."

President Coolidge was not the "principal" referred to in McLean's telegram, Bennett said.

Daugherty, the witness said, told him to convey to McLean much the same message as was in the code telegram. (Continued on page 2)

HOUSE VOTES DEMAND UPON JUSTICE DEPT.

Representative Longworth Republican, Would Give Them Chance to Answer

SUSPICION IS ON ALL

Republican Leader Declares All Fall Under 'Cloud' Raised in Chicago

WASHINGTON, Mar. 7.—Representative Langley, Republican, Kentucky, on the floor of the house demanded an investigation of published charges that he had received money for exerting official influence.

In a five-minute speech Mr. Langley emphatically denied that he had been guilty of any wrong doing. He was cheered by the house when he concluded his appeal for a "square deal."

WASHINGTON, Mar. 7.—Department of Justice officials had before them today a demand from the house that they disclose the names of the two representatives charged in a Chicago grand jury report with having accepted bribes.

The house acted unanimously late yesterday after leaders had learned that the grand jury to be assembled here to investigate these and other charges in the Chicago report could not be expected to reach a conclusion within a month.

Official disclosure of the names, it was pointed out by Representative Longworth, the Republican leader, will serve not only to remove the suspicion cast upon the entire membership of the house by publication of the report but would give the accused an immediate opportunity to offer a defense.

"If they don't," he added, "we either can try this case ourselves or leave it to the Department of Justice."

The demand was embodied in a resolution introduced several days ago by Rep. Garrett of Tennessee, the Democratic leader, which was adopted after elimination of a request as to basis for the charges against the two men and also the phrase "if not incompatible with public interest."

MARYLAND MAN NAMED
Baltimore, Mar. 7.—The Sun prints the following from its Washington correspondent:

"Representative Frederick N. Zihlman, of Maryland, is one of the two members of the house representatives whose names were brought into the grand jury proceeding at Chicago and against whom the department of justice is seeking to make a case of improperly receiving money."

"This became known beyond all question today when the Maryland representative himself candidly admitted that he had been implicated. He issued a brief statement asking the public to suspend judgment regarding the matter until the nature of the charges are made known and the charges have been answered."

"Mr. Zihlman's statement follows: 'This matter has been brought to me from various quarters, but I am at a loss to know what it is I am presumed to be implicated in. And until I do know and we all know what may be the nature of the charges I ask the public to suspend its judgment regarding the matter as it may involve my name, my character and my integrity.'

"In the absence of definite charges which I hear have been made against me it is impossible for me to issue a specific denial or to make a definite statement. I can only say that I count the fullest investigation. I am conscious of having committed no wrong."

Expect Riches From Warship

Manila, March 7.—The old monitor Monadnock, which was built some 30 years ago at San Francisco, is now being broken up for junk at a shipyard here.

The craft was brought to Manila more than 20 years ago, but never ventured far away from Cavite naval station where she was sold recently for $10,250 to a couple of Manila business men. They report they have sold enough of the equipment to cover the purchase price and that they have hard-scratched the old fighting ship.

DAUGHERTY IN CAPITAL STILL KEEPS SILENCE

Arrives from Florida in Time to Attend Today's Cabinet Meeting

HAS NOTHING TO SAY

Washington, Mar. 7.—Attorney-General Daugherty would make no statement upon his arrival here today from Florida. He went directly from the station to the cabinet meeting.

"I'm feeling better than I have for five years," said the Attorney-General, "although I notice by the newspapers that I am reported to be a very sick man."

Mr. Daugherty arrived at the White House just in time for the 10:30 cabinet meeting.

He declined to be stopped by questioners as he hurried through the lobby of the executive offices and into the cabinet room where some of his colleagues were already waiting.

The meeting of the complete cabinet lasted only a little over an hour. The first members to leave said the question of Mr. Daugherty's retirement had not been discussed.

When Mr. Daugherty emerged later from the cabinet meeting he said he could "hardly answer a question" as to whether the situation in Washington as it respected him had changed since his departure for Florida.

WHEAT GROWING COST DISCUSSED

Washburn, N. D., Mar. 7.—What does it cost to grow an acre of wheat or keep a horse for the year? These were the subjects discussed at a meeting held last week by County Agent Norling at Wilton, Washburn and Coleharbor. Mr. Norling, from the Farm Management Department at the Agricultural College gave actual records of different farms in the state showing that at one farm it cost the farmer 17c per hour for his horse labor while the cost to the other farmer was only 6c. The records showed that one farmer raised his wheat at 18c per bushel cheaper than the other farmer. Mr. Thorfinson said that keeping cost records would help the farmer in stopping some of the losses. If a farmer did not keep cost records he recommended keeping farm accounts as the next and best thing. Farm account books can be had for 25c by writing Mr. Norling.

During 1923 George M. Robinson and G. A. Anderson of Coleharbor have kept cost records in cooperation with Mr. Norling and the Agricultural College. That is they have kept track every day of expenses, receipts and number of hours of time spent on livestock and different crops. While here Mr. Thorfinson helped close up the records for 1923 and started new inventory for 1924. Mr. Anderson and Mr. Robinson will continue cost accounts again for 1924, also Vaughn Hanson of Turtle Lake who is a new cooperator for this year.

Bennett signed "Count" and sent on the same day.
Bennett said the second sentence of the telegram about "no resignations" had no relation to the first. He testified he got this impression at a White House press conference with President Coolidge.
There was a reference in the message to "Senator Curtis," assistant Republican leader of the Senate, Bennett said.
Bennett said Senator Curtis had told him to tell McLean not to worry that "he would be all right" and he had no connection with the matter except that he had "stood up for Fall."

DENIES TESTIMONY
Washington, March 7.—Senator Curtis of Kansas, the assistant Republican leader of the senate, denied today the testimony of his Ben- nett, editorial writer of the Washington Post, that he was the "principal" in the telegram sent by Bennett to Edward B. McLean on January 29.

Don't let constipation make you an invalid —relieve it with Kellogg's Bran

Few people realize how dangerous is constipation until this dread disease tears down their health. Did you know that more than thirty serious diseases can be traced to constipation?

Keep your health, or restore it, with Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumm-bled. It brings relief in mild and chronic cases of constipation. It is effective because it is ALL bran. That is why it is recommended so highly by doctors. They know that only ALL bran can bring 100 per cent results. Part bran is, at best, only a halfway measure.

If eaten regularly Kellogg's Bran will bring permanent relief—even in the most chronic case. It is guaranteed to do so. If it fails, your grocer will return your money.

Of all the family, father is apt to be the most careless of a cough or cold, and it is the duty of mother or the girls to see that he takes FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND at the first sign of a cough, cold or hoarseness. SOUTH AMERICA INTERESTED IN RED CROSS

Washington, March 7.—Greater democracy in the Red Cross Societies of the Central and South American republics through nationwide membership promises to develop as a direct result of the recent Pan-American Red Cross Conference, held in Buenos Aires, at which all except one of the Red Cross Societies in North, Central and South America were represented.

A shipment of supplies and a specially prepared outline of the method of American Red Cross membership enrollment was promptly sent to the Argentine Red Cross.

The Argentine Society is the first of the societies represented at the Buenos Aires conference to consider a membership roll call, but it is expected that the other societies in Central and South America will consider adoption of similar plans for nationwide memberships.

Extension of the policy of democratizing the Red Cross in all nations gives promise of a measurable increase in enlistment.

Ask Parents To Cooperate In School Problems

Chicago, Mar. 7.—If the school is to accomplish anything more than the transmission of technical knowledge from one generation to another, the existing attitude of indifference toward the child way to the school is an opportunity, Mrs. E. Bristol, dean of girls at St. Louis, told me.

Association of Women, in convention here.

"Educators cannot direct the mind of the child," the proper channel, technically, Mrs. Bristol said. "We must realize that preoccupation with school affairs tends to keep us from envisaging the community which we serve. Our teaching of single subjects endangers the main object of education, rearing well informed and useful citizens to carry on the world's affairs. If we can see the fertility of too much faith in our single handed methods, we shall make use of the criticisms expressed by parents, to build up a better mutual understanding and to encourage democratic participation in community life."

In discussing the duties of parents and teachers in relation to schools, Mrs. Bristol urged more visits by parents and an active interest in school life, both educationally and socially.

"The teachers need the suggestions furnished by the parents as much as the parents need them to give the child a technical education. The dean can be the connecting link between the teacher and the parent, and on her depends the success of the school. To bring fruitful relations between the school and community, which results in raising the standards of civilization among the younger generation, is one of the many problems confronting educators."

"We have lost sight of the fact that without close cooperation between the school and community, the parent and the teacher, the best results cannot be obtained in advancing civilization."

Miss MacSwiney
Gives Views

Belfast, March 7.—"I would wreck every bridge in Ireland rather than see one man disgrace himself, his country and the martyred dead, by taking the oath of allegiance to Ireland's enemy," said Mary MacSwiney at Athlone recently.

Referring to partition, she said if Premier Craig and his government want to be British citizens they should "go across the Channel, and live there in peace; we will be glad to get rid of them."

Tariff Advance Already Discounted in Trading

Chicago, Mar. 7.—Wheat receded with corn in today's early dealings. Expected signing of the tariff advance proclamation was apparently regarded as having already been discounted as a bullish factor. The opening, which varied from unchanged figures to 3-8 cents higher, May and July both $1.11 1-2 to $1.11 5-8 was followed by a moderate decline all around.

Subsequently wheat advanced sharply as a result of advice that in the last few days two million bushels of Canadian wheat had been purchased for May, July shipment to Europe. The close was strong, 3-4 to 1-4 cents net higher, May $1.12 3-8 to $1.12 1-2 and July $1.12 1-2 to 5-8 to $1.12 5-8.

SOUTH AMERICA INTERESTED IN RED CROSS

Washington, March 7.—Greater democracy in the Red Cross Societies of the Central and South American republics through nationwide membership promises to develop as a direct result of the recent Pan-American Red Cross Conference, held in Buenos Aires, at which all except one of the Red Cross Societies in North, Central and South America were represented.

Before Judge John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross, had reached home after attending the conference as a delegate, a message arrived at American Red Cross headquarters in Washington from Dr. Joaquim Liambias, president of the Argentine Red Cross, requesting detailed information as to the annual enrollment of members in the American Red Cross, and specimens of the various supplies used in conducting a Red Cross roll call.

A shipment of supplies and a specially prepared outline of the method of American Red Cross membership enrollment was promptly sent to the Argentine Red Cross.

The Argentine Society is the first of the societies represented at the Buenos Aires conference to consider a membership roll call, but it is expected that the other societies in Central and South America will consider adoption of similar plans for non-voting memberships.

Extension of the policy of democratizing the Red Cross in all nations gives promise of a measurable increase in enrollment.

The Will of the People on Tax Reduction

Is Clearly Shown in the "Digest's" Record-Breaking National Poll on the Mellon Plan--1,652,858 Secret Ballots are Tabulated in This Week's Issue--Greatest Non-Official Referendum Ever Taken

All previous records have been broken by the number of ballots being received in THE LITERARY DIGEST'S nation-wide poll on the Mellon Plan for Tax Reduction. Only four States of the Union—New York, Illinois, Ohio, and Pennsylvania—are credited with a larger vote in the last Presidential election than the total number of ballots so far received in THE DIGEST'S poll. If you would get a clear idea of what American voters favor in the way of tax reduction, study the table of votes in THE LITERARY DIGEST this week. And then, the comments from various sources for and against the poll certainly make interesting reading. Other big news-features in THE DIGEST for March 8th are:

DAUGHERTY IN CAPITAL STILL KEEPS SILENCE

Arrives from Florida in Time to Attend Today's Cabinet Meeting

HAS NOTHING TO SAY

Washington, Mar. 7. Attorney General Daugherty would make no statement upon his arrival here today from Florida. He went directly from the station to the cabinet meeting.

The cabinet meeting at the White House just in time for the 10:30 roll call. He declined to be stopped by questions, he hurried through the lobby of the executive offices and into the cabinet room where some of his colleagues were already waiting.

The meeting of the complete cabinet lasted only a little over an hour. The first members to arrive were the question of Mr. Daugherty's government had been discussed.

When Mr. Daugherty emerged later from the cabinet meeting he said he could hardly answer a question as to whether the situation in Washington as it respected him had changed since his departure from Florida.

WHEAT GROWING COST DISCUSSED

Washington, N. D., Mar. 7. What does it cost to grow an acre of wheat or corn a year? The subjects were discussed at a meeting held last week by County Agent Norling at Williston, Wash., and Col. Harlow, Mr. Thompson, of the Farm Management Department at the Agricultural College gave actual records of different farms in the state showing that it cost one farmer to grow wheat 17c per bushel for his horse labor while the cost to the other farmer was only 10c. The records showed that one farmer raised his wheat at 18c per bushel cheaper than the other farmer. Mr. Thompson said that keeping cost records would help the farmer in stopping some of the losses. If a farmer did not keep cost records he recommended keeping farm accounts as the best thing. Farm account books can be had for 25c by writing Mr. Norling.

During 1921 George M. Robinson and G. A. Anderson of Colerabaugh kept cost records in cooperation with Mr. Norling and the Agricultural College. That is they have kept track every day of expenses, receipts and number of hours of time spent on livestock and different crops. While here Mr. Thompson helped close up the records for 1921. Mr. Anderson and Mr. Robinson will continue cost accounts again for 1922. Also Vaughn, Hansen of Turf Lake, who is a new cooperator for this year.

DAUGHERTY AND CURTIS IS NAMED IN TELEGRAMS

gram signed "Curtis" and sent on the same day.
Bennett said the second sentence of the telegram about no resignations had no relation to the first. He testified he got this impression at a White House press conference with President Coolidge.
There was a reference in the message to Senator Curtis, assistant Republican leader of the Senate, Bennett said.
Bennett said Senator Curtis had told him to tell McLean not to worry that "he would be all right and he had no connection with the matter except that he had stood up for Fair."

DENIES TESTIMONY
Washington, March 7. Senator Curtis of Kansas, the assistant Republican leader of the Senate, denied today the testimony of Ira Bennett, editorial writer of the Washington Post, that he was the person in the telegram sent by Bennett to Edward B. McLean on January 29.

League To Pension Employees

Geneva, March 7. The League of Nations is working out a pension scheme for its employees. KITCHEN CUPBOARD

By NELLIE MAXWELL

EVERYDAY GOOD THINGS

WHEN looking for a dessert in the family that likes pie try:
Nut, Cream, Prune Pie.—Put through a sieve one cupful of stewed prunes; add a cupful of rich milk, one tablespoonful of flour, a third of a cupful of sugar, the yolks of two eggs, well beaten and the whites beaten stiff and added just at the last. Sprinkle a cupful of chopped black walnut meats over the top and bake as usual. Use a pastry-lined plate and bake at first in a hot oven, then lower the heat to bake the custard.

Mashed Potatoes With Peanut Butter.—Boil, mash and heat until light, six medium-sized potatoes; add salt, one tablespoonful of butter and one-half cupful of hot milk. Heap in a hot dish. Blend one and one-half tablespoonfuls of peanut butter with one tablespoonful of butter, add a few dashes of red pepper and dot the hot potato with bits of the butter.

Planked Fish.—Split the fish, wipe with a damp cloth and lay skin side down on the well heated planks, which have been rubbed with sweet fat. Sprinkle the fish with seasonings and dot with bits of butter if it is a fish lacking fat. Place in the oven under the broiler flame for fifteen minutes. Meanwhile have potatoes, onion, and one and one-half tablespoonfuls of peanut butter with one tablespoonful of butter, add a few dashes of red pepper and dot the hot potato with bits of the butter.

Cabbage Salad.—Chop cabbage, add a cupful of chopped celery to three cupfuls of cabbage, and the sliced bananas. Season well and cover with any desired well-seasoned dressing. Serve in a cabbage bowl made by scooping out the cabbage from a good firm head. Garnish with fringed celery and some of the thick mayonnaise.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

TREND IN NEWSPAPERS

Fargo finds supporting two newspapers operating separate plants an unprofitable venture even in a city of more than 21,000 with a sister city across the river nearly half that size to draw from.

The purchase of the Fargo morning daily by Norman Black probably means ultimately publication from the Forum plant giving Fargo a morning and evening edition under one general editorial and mechanical control which should make for better service and more economical operation.

Newspapermen of the state generally will wish Mr. Black success in his new venture and the purchase should clarify the situation in the Fargo newspaper field making possible a profitable venture out of what meant a continued liability.

Despite the fact that some costs of production are going down, the newspaper business faces as high costs as dominated during the war, both from a labor and material standpoint. Cities the size of Fargo and smaller cities face problems in publishing daily newspapers little understood by the laymen.

Probably no institution gives as generously in free space to every public venture as a newspaper. That is part of the service it gives willingly to a promotion of the best interests of the city in which it publishes. It enjoys no exemption or special privileges by reason of the publicity given every conceivable undertaking for the betterment of the community. Sometimes these demands draw heavily upon equipment and materials, but response is none the less prompt as it should be for newspapers have their obligations to a community by reason of the quasi public nature of the business in which publishers are engaged.

Merchants of Fargo doubtless will welcome the consolidation of newspaper interests for it doubtless will result in giving them a lower group rate for morning and evening advertising and by cutting overhead, their message will reach the public at a lessened cost but at a greater efficiency of distribution.

Great cities like Chicago with its millions find three morning newspapers a problem for most expert financing. The Chicago Tribune probably is one of the most profitable newspaper ventures in the nation but its morning competitors, the Herald-Examiner and Journal of Commerce, have never been ranked in the very profitable class of newspaper properties.

Newspaper consolidations in New York have limited the field in the last few years merely pointing to the fact that a community is best served by fewer papers whose patronage is adequate enough to give service in the dissemination of news and advertising.

COST OF RUNNING A CHEAP AUTO

It costs five and a third cents a mile to own and operate a popular-priced auto. This is shown by an extensive check-up of three of the cheaper makes of cars, according to the Wall Street Journal.

Five and a third cents a mile is the average figure. Some cost more, others less. Depends a lot on the driver and the care devoted to the car.

How does the record of your own bus tally with this average? In making comparisons, you'll note that to drive even a cheap car costs about twice as much as a trip by railroad. Street cars give much cheaper service. But the auto driver has the satisfaction of ownership, privacy and the pleasure of going wherever he desires instead of following steel tracks.

The average family drives a car 5000 miles a year or about 14 miles a day, the investigators decided. It's estimated that $266 a year ($5.11 a week) operates the family bus and provides money for its replacement by a new car at the end of seven years.

The investigators figured gasoline at 20 cents a gallon, 20 miles to a gallon, or $50 a year.

Oil at 20 cents a quart, 250 miles to a quart, $4 a year.

Tires $60 a set for 15,000 miles, or $20 a year.

Repairs, striking a seven-year average, $50 a year.

Insurance against fire and theft, $15 a year.

Depreciation is estimated as being one-seventh of the original cost, each year, or $55.

Garage rent is entered at $72 a year. This is the largest single item of costs of operation and ownership.

The "cost per mile" is dropping each year, the Wall Street Journal claims. It quotes auto engineers as predicting that before long all cheap cars will be stored "in the open" and a large part of the item of garage rent eliminated.

Five dollars or so a week for running a car doesn't seem much in these days when a dollar is worth only 60 cents in buying power compared with what it bought before the war. But if any one had predicted such an expenditure 20 years or more ago, the average person would have gazed reflectively in the direction of the poorhouse.

WEALTHY

An obscure barber in Harrison, N. J., gets word he is heir to a fortune of 75 million dollars. This money has been held in trust by the French government for more than a century. The history of the case involves old-time sailors, a kidnapping and other highlights of adventure.

It appeals to the imagination. But, according to Christian Science Monitor, there are more than 200 personal fortunes in the United States estimated at over 50 million dollars apiece. This certainly is a land of opportunity—though, often, only for a few.

The Eskimos are said to be very happy. Well, they don't have to argue about the weather. They know it will be cold.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

THE WISCONSIN MIND

Senator LaFollette's telegram withdrawing his name from the ballot in the Republican primary election in Dakota has set the Washington quidnuncs wondering what he intends to do. Various oracular gentlemen who profess to be "familiar with the mind" of the Wisconsin Senator declare that his action foreshadows a determination to lead a third party. But it is dangerous to be sure that you have found bottom in exploring the depths of that mighty mind. Still, two things seem to be pretty well established by the language of Senator LaFollette's telegram. He is under no illusion about what is going to happen at the Cleveland Convention. He already detects the approach of the steam-roller which has twice flattened him, and which he fully expects to run over him again, despite the fact that Wisconsin will send a strong delegation of Progressive Republicans to the National Convention to "fight for fundamental principles." This makes it certain that he will not head a third party until after he has bolted the Republican nomination. But we know that in years past Mr. LaFollette has been better at sulking than at bolting.

The other implication in the Senator's telegram is yet more significant. He will not run in the North Dakota primary because it has always been his rule not to ask his friends to fight for him "when I am unable to do my share of the fighting." He refuses to permit his name to stand in a campaign where he cannot personally argue the issues before the people. Now, if this is a "fundamental principle" with Senator LaFollette, it will pretty surely debar him from making a campaign this year for the third party or any other. It is known that he is not physically up to that work which he always makes so arduous. If he were to essay it, a break-down would almost inevitably be the result. Hence the strong probability is that he will continue at Washington to make as much trouble as he can, and later in the Summer to go off to recuperate rather than to bolt.

It has not been overlooked that Senator LaFollette's chief lieutenant in the House, Representative Frear, was full of threats of revolt until the final test came, when, amid the jeers and groans of the Democrats with whom he had been acting, he meekly voted with the regular Republicans. This was a most instructive hint as to the proper way to read the Wisconsin Republican mind.—New York Times.

THE POWER AT HOME

When a man gets to be 90 years old, depend on it, there is something to blame. When he reaches that stage with his shoulders thrown back, his legs straight and strong, his wind good and his pulse normal, it ought to be made a subject of investigation.

If the truth is ever to be arrived at, the investigators must apply that cynical but useful French maxim, "cherchez la femme."

When friends and neighbors of Chauncey M. Depew recently served a summons on him to appear at a great birthday party and show cause why he should not be congratulated upon arriving at 90 years he just about let the cat out of the bag. He said he did not think it likely the "power at home" which has ruled my life so well that I am in this magnificent condition today would consent to his going out to dinner on the evening before his birthday. He asked for a continuance of his case at a later date.

Instead of frittering away their time on the effect of intoxicants and the influence of the moon, might learn something to their advantage and ours by prying into "the power at home." All honor to Mr. Depew for making public an unashamed acknowledgment of his complete surrender to its gentle tyranny.—Omaha World-Herald.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"Turnpence avice!" cried the jolly fiddler at the fair. "Turnpence avice, or three for a penny bit, to get in and hear the Fiddling Fiddle from Fairyland."

And all the Beanstalk people followed him in wonder, carefully counting out their pennies that they might hear the wonderful fiddle that could play by itself.

"It's like all the other strange things that have happened in Beanstalk Land lately," said an old lady with a wag of her head. "Like the boots that walked alone, and the queer way Johnny Stout's mother's clock acted." And she passed in with all the others, for the ticket-man said the fiddler was welcome to his tent.

When the tent was as full of Beanstalk people as it could hold (and the fiddler's pockets as full of money as they could hold), it was time to begin.

Nancy and Nick, away down inside of the hollow fiddle, could hear everything that was going on, but they kept well out of sight, you may be sure.

"Fairlyland Fiddle, please quickly obey, And show the good people how well you can play," cried the jolly fiddler, laying the bow on the table and putting the fiddle to his chin.

Instantly the Twins reached in from their hiding place and tugged at the big strings. Such a noise! But in spite of the fact that, the fiddle was anything but a beast of burden, as though the fiddle was bewitched.

"Marvelous!" said one Beanstalk-Lander.

BAD DOINGS IN MEXICO

DAILY CRISIS DOWN, THERE WORSE

Yucatan farmers have offered to loan Huerta, revolutionary leader of Mexico, hemp valued at a million dollars. Obregon might say, "This is giving the calf too much rope." But then, Obregon might favor it if the revolutionists would hang themselves. News from a different section says Mexico may let the United States control her entire tobacco output. This looks like sly work to us. Are the Mexicans going to sell us this hemp for cigars to give away during the presidential campaign?

I really felt sorry for her, Bee, as I am more than ever convinced that it is her baby and Sydney Carton, Jack's friend, is the child's father. I do not want to know this for sure, however, because I would always have a feeling it was my duty to try to bring about a wedding between the two. In some way I do not think Sydney Carton is suited to Paula Perier at all. As charming as she is, I have a feeling Sydney Carton, with all the virtues which go to make up real personal righteousness, is too good for her.

You don't know how disappointed I was when I first had a feeling that Sydney was the father of little Jack. I had thought better of him. I think perhaps I have respected him more than any man I have ever known, more even than Jack. He seemed so stable that I did not want to think he would in any way wrong any girl. More than all, I did not want to think he would let me adopt this baby without telling me of it personally.

Evidently he has told this to Jack because I am sure Jack knows all about it. By the way, Jack was very angry when I told him Miss Perier was coming here, and at first positively forbade my visit. Of course, that made me much keener to have her come than before. I did not tell him, however that Dick Summers was coming with her. I wanted to let him think we were going to have a little visit all by ourselves.

He was very nervous and said some very profane things about the whole movie profession, their press agents and everything connected with them.

Promptly upon her leaving the house Jack made his appearance, so promptly that I had a suspicion he was waiting at the corner drugstore until she would leave.

He came in with an air of fictitious gaiety which did not fool me in the least. "Miss Perier has just gone," I said. "You should have come a little sooner."

"I did not want to see her," he growled. "I don't see why all you women are running after her just because she is in pictures. There are women who are on the list of patronesses today who would have been insulted had they been introduced to her when she was in this town before. They hated her then because she was beautiful and they don't love her now any more than they did then. They are just curious."

"You can't say that of me, Jack," I said kindly. "For you must know I never knew Paula Perier. She left here before we were married. From what I have seen of her today, I think she is a very sweet woman."

"Oh, she's that all right," said Jack, "but you seem to be the first woman I have ever known to find it out, at least, acknowledge it. What did you talk about?"

XXXVI (Continued)

At all events the fashion she became, and it was quite as patent that she took it as a matter of course. The radiant happiness that possessed her, refusing as she did to look into the future with its menace to those high duties of her former dedication—clear, sharp, ruthless children of her brain—not only enhanced both her beauty and magnetism, but enabled her to endure this social ordeal she had dreaded, without ennui. She was too happy to be bored. She even plunged into it with youthful selfishness. For the first time in her life she was at peace with herself. She was not at peace when Clavering made love to her, far from it; but she enjoyed with all the zest of a woman with her first lover, and something of the timidity, this tantalizing preliminary to fruition. How could she ever have believed that her mind was old? She turned her imagination away from that lodge in the Dolomites, and believed it was because the present with its happiness and its excitement sufficed her.

Moreover, she was having one novel experience that afforded her much diversion. The newspapers were full of it. It took exactly five days after Mrs. Oglethorpe's luncheon for the story she had told there to filter down to Park Row, and although she would not consent to be interviewed, there were double-page stories in the Sunday issues, embellished with snapshots and a photograph of the Mary Ogden of the eighties; a photographer who had the honor

Clavering asked her one day when the sensation was about a month old and was beginning to expire journalistically for want of fresh fuel. (Not a woman in New York were taking the treatment.) "You are the most famous woman in America and the pioneer of a revolution that may have lasting and momentous consequences on which we can only speculate vaguely to-day. I don't believe you are as unmoved as you look. It's not in woman's nature—in human nature. Publicity goes to the head and then descends to the marrow of the bones."

"I'm not unmoved. I've been tremendously interested and excited. I find that newspaper notoriety is the author of a distinctly new sensation." And then she felt a disposition to play with fire. Clavering was in one of his rare detached moods, and had evidently come for an hour of agreeable companionship. "I am beginning to get a little bored and tired. If it were not for this Vienna Fund—and to the newspapers for their assistance I am eternally grateful—I believe I'd suggest that we leave for Austria tomorrow."

"And I wouldn't go." Clavering stood on the hearthrug smiling down at her with humorous defiance. "You switched me on to that play, and there I stick until it is finished. No chance for it in a honeymoon, and no chance for unadulterated happiness with that crashing round inside my head."

She shrank and turned cold, but recovered herself sharply and dismissed the pang. It was her first experience, in her exhaustive knowledge of men, of the writing temperament; and after all it was part of the novelty of the man who had obliterated every other from her mind. Nor had she any inten-

"Do you imagine that when we return to New York I'm going to let Society take possession of you again?"

to "take" her was still in existence and exhumed the plates.

Doctors, biologists, endocrinologists, were interviewed. Civil war threatened: the medical fraternity, upheld by a few doubting Thomases among the more abstract followers of the science, on one side of the field, by far the greater number of those who peer into the human mechanism with mere scientific acumen on the other. Doctors, notoriously as conservative as kings and as jealous as opera singers, found themselves threatened with the loss of elderly patients whose steady degeneration was a source of respectable income. When it was discovered that New York actually held a practicing physician who had studied with the great endocrinologists of Vienna, the street in front of his house looked as if some ambitious hostess were holding a continual reception.

Finally Madame Zattiany consented to give a brief statement to the press through her lawyers. It was as impersonal as water, but technical enough to satisfy the Medical Journal. At the theatre and opera people waited in solid phalanxes to see her pass. Her utter immobility on these occasions, but heightened the feverish interest.

Women of thirty, dreaming of becoming flappers overnight, and formidable rivals, with the subtlety of experience behind the mask of seventeen, were desolated to learn that they must submit to the claws and teeth of time until they had reached the last mile-post of their maturity. Beauty doctors gnashed their teeth, and plastic surgeons looked forward to the day when they must play upon some other form of human credulity. As a subject for the press it rivaled strikes, prohibition, German reparations, Lenin, prize-fights, censorship and scandalous divorces in high life.

"Why isn't your head turned?"

"Well, to tell you the truth, I don't care a hang whether we are or not. I'll have you, and all to myself. And I won't say for a while, at least. Do you imagine that when we return to New York I'm going to let Society take possession of you again? Not only shall I work harder than I've ever worked before, but I'd see little more of you than I do now. And that I'll never submit to again. I'll write my next play inside this house, and you'll be here when I want you, not gadding about."

She felt a sudden pang of dismay, apprehension. New York? She realized that not for a moment had she given up her original purpose. But why disturb the serenity of the present? When she had him in the Dolomites . . . She answered him in the same light tone.

"I'm having my last fling at New York Society. When we return we'll give our spare time to the Sophisticates. I see far less of them now than I like."

Wunders of Sioux City, Iowa, shortly after midnight, Wednesday, at her parents' home, north of Mandon. Rev. H. H. Owen of the Presbyterian church, reading the marriage ceremony. Mr. Wunders is at present with the Sioux City Electric and Gas Co.

GOOD FOOD IN VARIETY

A SIMPLE, easy way to prepare a dessert is often hard to find in a hurry. Try this:
Ambrosia.—Take one cupful of walnut meats, two cupfuls of dates, one tablespoonful of lemon juice and one-half cupful of whipped cream. Wipe the dates and remove the pits, cut into small pieces and combine with the walnut meats coarsely chopped. Add the lemon juice and arrange the mixture in sherbet cups topped with a spoonful of sweetened and flavored whipped cream.

Banana Whip.—Take six ripe bananas, two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, two tablespoonfuls of sugar, one-half cupful of chopped walnut meats and one cupful of whipped cream. Press the bananas through a ricer, add the lemon juice, sugar and walnut meats coarsely chopped. Chill thoroughly and serve in sherbet glasses garnished with a spoonful of cream. A teaspoonful of finely minced mint added to the bananas before chilling makes a nice flavor.

Tomato Canape.—Take a slice of a large tomato, slice half of a hard-boiled egg lengthwise and put it sliced side down on the tomato, pour over French dressing and sprinkle with finely chopped chives.

Sardines a la Tartare.—Skin and remove the bones from six sardines. Cut strips of bread the same size and shape as the fish and fry them in butter until golden brown. When cool, arrange the sardines on the bread, coat them with tartare sauce and garnish with capers and bits of pimento.

Head Lettuce With Roquefort Dressing.—Take one-fourth of a cupful of roquefort cheese. Mix together one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-eighth of a teaspoonful of pepper, one tablespoonful of vinegar and three tablespoonfuls of oil. Blend well and add the cheese. Pour over the head lettuce and serve at once.

A ruffle at the bottom of the kitchen apron is not merely a trimming. Its fullness makes it outstanding, thus preventing anything spilled from finding a landing place on the skirt.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

TREND IN NEWSPAPERS
 Fargo finds supporting two newspapers operating separate plants an unprofitable venture even in a city of more than 21,000 with a sister city across the river nearly half that size to draw from.

The purchase of the Fargo morning daily by Norman Black probably means ultimately publication from the Forum plant giving Fargo a morning and evening edition under one general editorial and mechanical control which should make for better service and more economical operation.

Newspapermen of the state generally will wish Mr. Black success in his new venture and the purchase should clarify the situation in the Fargo newspaper field making possible a profitable venture out of what meant a continued liability.

Despite the fact that some costs of production are going down, the newspaper business faces as high costs as dominated during the war, both from a labor and material standpoint. Cities the size of Fargo and smaller cities face problems in publishing daily newspapers little understood by the laymen.

Probably no institution gives as generously in free space to every public venture as a newspaper. That is part of the service it gives willingly to a promotion of the best interests of the city in which it publishes. It enjoys no exemption or special privileges by reason of the publicity given every conceivable undertaking for the betterment of the community. Sometimes these demands draw heavily upon equipment and materials, but response is none the less prompt as it should be for newspapers have their obligations to a community by reason of the quasi public nature of the business in which publishers are engaged.

Merchants of Fargo doubtless will welcome the consolidation of newspaper interests for it doubtless will result in giving them a lower group rate for morning and evening advertising and by cutting overhead, their message will reach the public at a lessened cost but at a greater efficiency of distribution.

Great cities like Chicago with its millions find three morning newspapers a problem for most expert financing. The Chicago Tribune probably is one of the most profitable newspapers in the nation but its morning competitors, the Herald-Examiner and Journal of Commerce, have never been ranked in the very profitable class of newspaper properties.

Newspaper consolidations in New York have limited the field in the last few years merely pointing to the fact that a community is best served by fewer papers whose patronage is adequate enough to give service in the dissemination of news and advertising.

COST OF RUNNING A CHEAP AUTO

It costs five and a third cents a mile to own and operate a popular-priced auto. This is shown by an extensive check-up of three of the cheaper makes of cars, according to the Wall Street Journal.

Five and a third cents a mile is the average figure. Some cost more, others less. Depends a lot on the driver and the care devoted to the car.

How does the record of your own bus-tally with this average? In making comparisons, you'll note that to drive even a cheap car costs about twice as much as a trip by railroad. Street cars give much cheaper service. But the auto driver has the satisfaction of ownership, privacy and the pleasure of going wherever he desires instead of following steel tracks.

The average family drives a car 5000 miles a year or about 14 miles a day, the investigators decided. It's estimated that $266 a year ($5.11 a week) operates the family bus and provides money for its replacement by a new car at the end of seven years.

The investigators figured gasoline at 20 cents a gallon, 20 miles to a gallon, or $50 a year.

Oil at 20 cents a quart, 250 miles to a quart, $4 a year.

Tires $60 a set for 15,000 miles, or $20 a year.

Repairs, striking a seven-year average, $50 a year.

Insurance against fire and theft, $15 a year.

Depreciation is estimated as being one-seventh of the original cost, each year, or $55.

Garage rent is entered at $72 a year. This is the largest single item of costs of operation and ownership.

The "cost per mile" is dropping each year, the Wall Street Journal claims. It quotes auto engineers as predicting that before long all cheap cars will be stored "in the open" and a large part of the item of garage rent eliminated.

Five dollars or so a week for running a car doesn't seem much in these days when a dollar is worth only 60 cents in buying power compared with what it bought before the war.

But if any one had predicted such an expenditure 20 years or more ago, the average person would have gazed reflectively in the direction of the poorhouse.

WEALTHY

An obscure barber in Harrison, N. J., gets word he is heir to a fortune of 75 million dollars. This money has been held in trust by the French government for more than a century. The history of the case involves old-time sailors, a kidnapping and other highlights of adventure.

It appeals to the imagination. But, according to Christian Science Monitor, there are more than 200 personal fortunes in the United States estimated at over 50 million dollars apiece. This certainly is a land of opportunity—though, often, only for a few.

THE WISCONSIN MIND

Senator LaFollette's telegram withdrawing his name from the ballot in the Republican primary of North Dakota has set the Washington quillmen wondering what he intends to do. Various oracular gentlemen who profess to be "familiar with the mind" of the Wisconsin Senator declare that his action forebodes a determination to lead a third party. But it is dangerous to be sure that you have found bottom in exploring the depths of that mighty mind. Still, two things seem to be pretty well established by the language of Senator LaFollette's telegram. He is under no illusion about what is going to happen at the Cleveland Convention. He already detects the approach of the steam-roller which has twice flattened him, and which he fully expects to run over him again, despite the fact that Wisconsin will send a strong delegation of Progressive Republicans to the National Convention to "fight for fundamental principles." This makes it certain that he will not head a third party until after he has bolted the Republican nomination. But we know that in years past Mr. LaFollette has been better at sulking than at bolting.

The other implication in the Senator's telegram is yet more significant. He will not run in the North Dakota primary because it has always been his rule not to let his friends to fight for him "when I am unable to do my share of the fighting." He refuses to permit his name to stand in a campaign where he cannot personally argue the issues before the people. Now, if this is a "fundamental principle" with Senator LaFollette, it will pretty surely debilitate him from making a third party or any other. It is known that he is not physically up to that work which he always makes so arduous. If he were to essay it, a break-down would almost inevitably be the result. Hence the strong probability is that he will continue to Washington to make as much trouble as he can, and later in the summer go off to recuperate rather than to bolt.

It has not been overlooked that Senator LaFollette's chief lieutenant in the House, Representative Frear, was full of threats of revolt until the final test came, when, amid the jeers and groans of the Democrats with whom he had been so neck-and-neck voted with the regular Republicans. This was a most instructive hint as to the proper way to read the Wisconsin Republican mind.—New York Times.

THE POWER AT HOME

When a man gets to be 90 years old, depend on it, there is somebody to blame. When he reaches that stage with his shoulders thrown back, his legs straight and strong, his wind good and his pulse normal, it ought to be made a subject of investigation.

If the truth be told, never to be arrived at by the investigators must apply that cynical but useful French maxim, "cherchez la femme."

When friends and neighbors of Chauncey M. Depew recently served a summons on him to appear at a great birthday party and show cause why he shouldn't be congratulated upon arriving at 90 years he just about let the cat out of the bag. He said he did not think it likely the "power at home" which has ruled my life as well that I am in this magnificent condition today would consent to his going out to dinner on the evening before his birthday. He asked for a continuance of his case at a later date.

Instead of frittering away their time on the effect of intoxicants and tobacco the inquisitors might learn something to their advantage and ours by prying into "the power at home." All honor to Mr. Depew for making public an unashamed acknowledgment of his complete surrender to "the little tyranny."—Omaha World-Herald.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"Turnpence antee!" cried the little fiddler at the safe. "Turnpence antee, or three for a penny bit, to get in and hear the Fiddling Fiddle from Fairlyland."

The Beantalk people followed him in wonder, carefully counting out their pennies that they might near the wonderful fiddle that could play by itself.

"It's like all the other strange things that have happened in Beantalk Land lately," said an old lady with a wag of her head. "Like the queer way Johnny Stout's mother's clock acted." And she passed in with all the others, for the ticket-man said the fiddler was welcome to his tent.

When the tent was as full of Beantalk people as it could hold (and the fiddler's pockets as full of money as they could hold), it was time to begin.

Nancy and Nick, away down inside of the hollow fiddle, could hear everything that was going on, but they kept well out of sight, you may be sure.

"Fairlyland Fiddle, please quickly obey," And show the good people how well you can play.

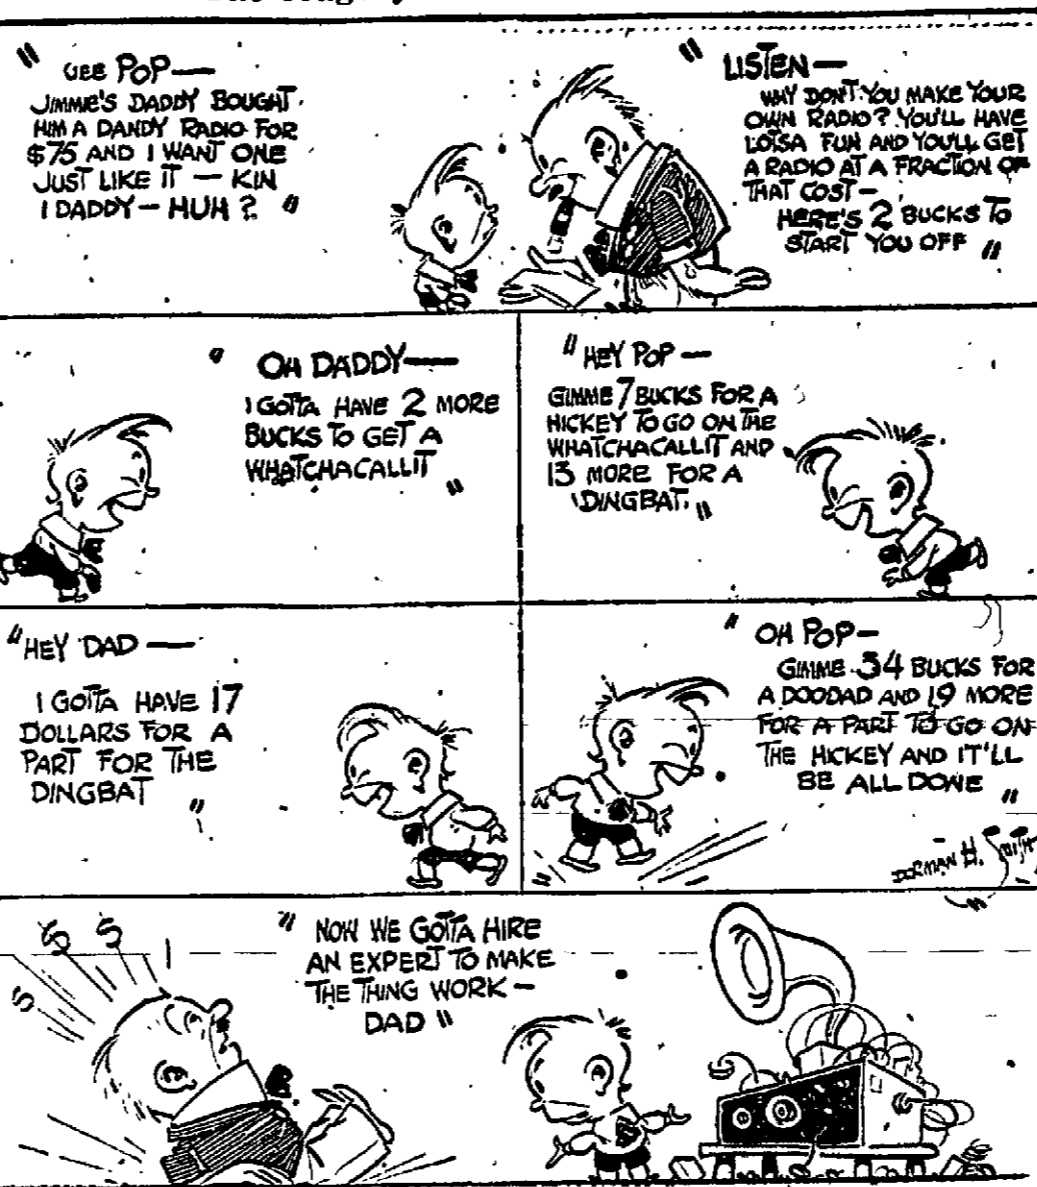

cried the jolly fiddler, laying the bow on the table and putting the fiddle to his chin.

Instantly the Twins reached in from their hiding place and tugged at the big strings. Such a noise!

But in spite of the fact that the tune wasn't anything to boast of, it seemed as though the fiddle was bewitched.

"Awful!" said one Beantalk Leader.

The Tragedy of the Home-Made Outfit

"Amazing!" cried another. "Most mysterious!" nodded another. "The only thing," said still another one, "is that it's a most peculiar tune!"

"Oh!" exclaimed the jolly fiddler. "That's because it is Fairlyland music and much too fine for us to appreciate!"

And so it went. And soon there wasn't a man in Beantalk Land as rich as the poor fiddler.

"And now I am rich enough!" thought he, "so shall turn my steps homeward and take these good fairy children back to the place I found them."

He bade goodbye to the good folk at the fair and started down the road, playing a merry tune with his bow.

Pretty soon they met a beggar. "I have so much and he has so little," I'll divide again," said the jolly fiddler. So he gave him all in the other pocket.

Next he met a chimney-sweep. "Poor soul, he looks so poor," said the fiddler. "I'll divide again." And he gave him all he had left.

Then he set the Twins gently on the ground and said goodbye.

I really felt sorry for her, Bee, as I am more than ever convinced that it is her baby and Sydney Carton. Jack's friend, is the child's father. I do not want to know this for sure, however, because I would always have a feeling it was my duty to try to bring about a wedding between them.

In some way I do not think Sydney Carton is suited to Paula Perier at all. As charming as she is, I have a feeling Sydney Carton, with all the virtues which go to make up real personal righteousness, is too good for her.

You don't know how disappointed I was when I first had a feeling that Sydney was the father of little Jack. I had thought better of him. I think perhaps I have respected him more than any man I have ever known, more even than Jack. He seemed so stable that I did not want to think he would in any way wrong any girl. More than all, I did not want to think he would let me adopt this baby without telling me of its parentage.

Evidently he has told this to Jack because I am sure Jack knows all about it. By the way, Jack was very angry when I told him Miss Perier was coming here, and at first positively forbade the visit. Of course, that made me much keener to have her come than before.

I did not tell him, however, that Dick Summers was coming with her. I wanted to let him think we were going to have a little visit all by ourselves.

He was very nervous and said some very profane things about the whole movie profession, their press agents and everything connected with them.

Promptly upon his leaving the house, Jack made his appearance, so promptly that I had a suspicion

At all events the fashion she became, and it was quite as patent that she took it as a matter of course. The radiant happiness that possessed her, refusing as she did to look into the future with its menace to those high duties of her former dedication—clear, sharp, ruthless children of her brain—not only enhanced both her beauty and magnetism, but enabled her to endure this social ordeal she had dreaded, without ennui. She was too happy to be bored. She even plunged into it with youthful relish. For the first time in her life she was at peace with herself. She was not at peace when Clavering made love to her; far from it; but she enjoyed with all the rest of a woman with her first lover, and something of the timidity, this tantalizing preliminary to fruition. How could she ever have believed that her mind was old? She turned her imagination away from that lodge in the Dolomites, and believed it was because the present with its happiness and its excitement sufficed her.

Moreover, she was having one novel experience that afforded her much diversion. The newspapers were full of her. It took exactly five days after Mrs. Oglethorpe's luncheon for the story she had told there to filter down to Park Row, and although she would not consent to be interviewed, there were double-page stories in the Sunday issues, embellished with snapshots and a photograph of the Mary Ogden of the eighties; a photographer who had had the honor

Clavering asked her one day when the sensation was about a month old and was beginning to expire journalistically for want of fresh fuel. (Not a woman in New York could be induced to admit that she was taking the treatment.) "You are the most famous woman in America and the pioneer of a revolution that may have lasting and momentous consequences on which we can only speculate vaguely to-day. I don't believe you are as unmoved as you look. It's not in woman's nature—in human nature. Publicity goes to the head and then descends to the marrow of the bones."

"I'm not unmoved. I've been tremendously interested and excited. I find that newspaper notoriety is the author of a distinctly new sensation." And, with fire, Clavering was in one of his rare detached moods; she had evidently come for an hour of agreeable companionship. "I'm not at all tired of getting a little bored and tired. If it were not for this Vienna Fandango to the newspapers for their assistance I am eternally grateful—I believe I'd suggest that we leave for Austria tomorrow."

"And I wouldn't go." Clavering stood on the hearth with humorous defiance. "You switched me on to this. No chance for it in a honeymoon, and no chance for undisturbed happiness with that crashing racket inside my head."

She shrank and turned cold, but recovered herself sharply and dismissed the pang. It was her first experience, in her exhaustive knowledge of men, of the writing temperament; and after all it was part of the novelty of the man who had obliterated every other from her mind. Nor had she any inten-

"Do you imagine that when we return to New York I'm going to let Society take possession of you again?"

"To 'take' her was still in existence and exhumed the plates."

Doctors, biologists, endocrinologists, were interviewed. Civil war threatened: the medical fraternity, upheld by a few doubting Thomases among the more abstract followers of the science, on one side of the field, by far the greater number of those who peer into the human mechanism with mere scientific acumen on the other. Doctors, notoriously as conservative as kings and as jealous as opera singers, found themselves threatened with the loss of elderly patients whose steady degeneration was a source of respectable income. When it was discovered that New York actually held a practicing physician who had studied with the great endocrinologists of Vienna, the street in front of his house looked as if some ambitious hostess were holding a continual reception.

Finally Madame Zattiany consented to give a brief statement to the press through her lawyers. It was as impersonal as water, but technically enough to satisfy the Medical Journal. At the theatre and opera people waited in solid phalanxes to see her pass. Her utter immobility on these occasions but heightened the feverish interest.

"You can't say that of me, Jack," I said kindly, "for you must know I never knew Paula Perier. She left here before we were married. From what I have seen of her today, I think she is a very sweet woman."

What might have been a serious fire was prevented when it was discovered that the furnace in the school house had become overheated last Sunday. The fire which was started in the pipes was soon extinguished and no damage was done. It was only a few years ago that Baldwin lost her schoolhouse and we have no wish to repeat the experience.

Sunday school was held in the Baldwin school house Sunday which was well attended. A cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend these meetings.

The chicken pox which has greatly cut down our school attendance has finally left town. No contagious disease has been reported so far, and we all hope the school can continue with a normal attendance. At this time we are having printed the Honor Roll, and it is only fair to state that but for sickness and contagious disease in the homes, thus preventing many children from attending school regularly this honor roll would have been longer. From now on the Baldwin school hopes to make a better showing.

Little Rosemary Morris of Arnold who is visiting at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Schenert was a visitor at the school Friday afternoon.

J. S. Fevold, local banker who is taking treatments in Bismarck is getting along very nicely according to his friends. Mr. Fevold had a severe cold which for a time threatened to turn into pneumonia.

Rupp brothers are busy moving their stock of hardware from the old place of business to their new location on Main Street. They will have in their new line of dry goods and groceries about March 15th.

The following pupils of the Baldwin school deserve merit having received an average of 90 or above on their monthly tests and thereby have their names placed on the Honor Roll:

Averaging 95 or above:
Eighth grade—Josie Johnson.
Seventh grade—Richard Rupp, Helen Strandene, Elizabeth Monroe.
Fourth grade—Emma Rupp.
Third grade—Evelyn Hubin, Lee Fricke.

Says It Keeps Him In Good Health—Tells of Recovery From Hay Fever.

"My experience with Tanlac goes back at least five years and I have nothing but the highest praise for it," is the precise statement of Charles Stoddard, 348 National Ave., Grand Rapids, Mich.

"Tanlac first set me right when I was suffering from hay fever. Besides I ached all over, couldn't eat and felt sick and miserable. Tanlac has also relieved me of kidney disorders."

"And since I learned what Tanlac will do I have made it a rule to take a course of it every spring and fall and find it pays, for it means health and strength to me. Before taking Tanlac the first time, my condition was such that I couldn't work, but I soon shook off the ills that held me down and regained good health. Yes, sir, people can feel assured that when they buy Tanlac they are buying something that will do them good."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 Million Bottles sold.

SYLLABUS:

1. A verdict must be certain, definite, intelligible, unambiguous, consistent and unconditional.

2. In a case where there is question as to the jury being the question as to the amount, if any, due on plaintiff's cause of action, and the amount, if any due on defendant's counterclaim, the verdict must clearly show in whose favor the balance rests and the amount thereof.

3. In the instant case the plaintiff brought suit to recover upon a contract for certain sand and gravel furnished by him to the defendants. In the answer defendants admitted certain sand and gravel was furnished by way of counterclaim, among other things, that the same was furnished under a contract with plaintiff agreed to furnish all sand and gravel necessary in the construction of a certain highway; that plaintiff breached such contract by refusing and failing to furnish the amount of gravel and sand agreed upon, and that as a result defendants were damaged in the sum of $510. Plaintiff denied that he had contracted as asserted by defendants, or that they were damaged as claimed. The issues presented upon the complaint, and upon the counterclaim were submitted to the jury. The jury returned the following verdict:

"We the jury in the above entitled action find in favor of the plaintiff and against the defendants in said action and assess plaintiff's damages at the sum of $326, with interest at the rate of 6% from the 17th day of August 1922 until paid; and allow defendants sufficient sand and gravel to complete culverts and projects from pit now opened on plaintiff's farm for project now in question between Carpio and Foxholm free of charge."

On motion to set aside the verdict, the trial court ordered that the verdict be set aside and the case be retried. The court further ordered that the plaintiff be allowed to recover the costs of the trial and the costs of the appeal.

ENTER: THE DRUG STORE COWBOY

BY ROY J. GIBBONS
 NEA Service Writer

Birmingham, Ala., and Points South, Mar. 7.-Enter the drug store cowboy and his' compatriot, the trapdoor flapper.

Of gangs new, these two have grabbed the local scenery, as the last word and stir in a world of troubled complexes.

In soda fountain tete-a-tote you can see them most any day flanked alongside the marble counters of department store 'apothecary' shops.

Attacking cauldrons of harmless nectars is the specialty, and solving current problems with ease of elder statesmen, the sideline of said cowboys and their petticoated allies.

All through the land of mammy songs, rendezvous for the younger set has shifted from front line evening bridge trenches to the more novel redoubt of corner pharmacies.

And many are the riotous pursuit of innocent merriment over cups of adjacent nectar, while caroling sweet harmony to refrain of banana songs.

Scientists studying habits of the breed see in them a throwback to the days redolent of swinging doors and foot rails before the polished bar.

by publication in the Bismarck Tribune, each week for four successive weeks, all not less than ten days before said hearing.

An agricultural expert called in by the government pronounced it impossible to eradicate the blight except by destroying all vanilla plants then existing, and ceasing from replanting for a period of eight years.

While these recommendations were not carried out to the extent of searching out and burning every vanilla plant infected, a period of more than eight years has elapsed without any serious attempt at vanilla culture. Now experimental planting has demonstrated that the virulence of the blight has abated so far that profitable planting again is possible.

Birmingham, Ala., and Points South, Mar. 7.-Enter the drug store cowboy and his compatriot the frappe flapper!

Of genus new, these two have grabbed the local scenery, as the last word and stir in a world of troubled complexes.

In soda fountain tete-a-tete you can see them most any day flanked alongside the marble counters of department store apothecary shops.

Attacking "caldrons of" harmless current problems with elan of elder statesmen, the sideline of said cowboys and their petticoat allies.

All through the land of mammy songs, rendezvous for the younger set has shifted from front line evening bridge trenches to the more novel redoubt of corner pharmacies.

And many are the 9 o'clock evenings they spend in riotous pursuit of innocent merriment over cups of adjacent nectar, while caroling sweet harmony to refrain of banana songs.

Scientists studying habits of the breed see in them a throwback to the days redolent of swinging doors and foot rails before the polished bar.

Tahiti To Grow Vanilla Again

Papeete, Tahiti, March 7.-The recent high prices for vanilla beans have stimulated a renewal of vanilla culture in Tahiti and the adjacent islands.

For some years past the growing of vanilla on most of the islands has been impossible because of a blight, introduced from the island of Reunion, which destroyed the flourishing plantations formerly existing.

While these recommendations were not carried out to the extent of searching out and burning every vanilla plant infected, a period of more than eight years has elapsed without any serious attempt at vanilla culture. Now experimental planting has demonstrated that the virulence of the blight has abated so far that profitable planting again is possible.

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORS

BALDWIN
Miss Hazel Richardson, teacher of the Crofte school three miles east of town, arrived home Monday morning from the capital city where she had spent the week end.

Van Couch, who has been visiting among friends in this district the past week will go to Garrison tomorrow where he has accepted a position on the farm of his brother, G. A. Hough. Van has lived in this territory for over twenty years but decided to sell out last fall.

What might have been a serious fire was prevented when it was discovered that this furnace in the school house had become overheated last Sunday. The fire which was started in the pipes was soon extinguished and no damage was done. There was only a few years ago that Baldwin lost her schoolhouse and we have no wish to repeat the experience.

Sunday school was held in the Baldwin school house Sunday which was well attended. A cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend these meetings.

The chicken pox which has greatly cut down our school attendance has finally left town. No contagious disease has been reported so far, and

SUPREME COURT

From Ward County.
Olaf Watne, Plaintiff and Respondent, vs. J. J. Rue, Charles Rue, et al., doing business under the firm name of J. J. Rue & Sons, Defendants. Appellants.

SYLLABUS:
1. A verdict must be certain, definite, intelligible, unambiguous, consistent and unconditional.
2. In a case where there is submitted to a jury both the question as to the amount, if any, due on plaintiff's cause of action, and the amount, if any due on defendant's counterclaim, the verdict must clearly show in what favor the balance rests and the amount thereof.

3. In the instant case the plaintiff brought suit to recover upon a contract for certain sand and gravel furnished by him to the defendants. In the answer defendants admitted certain sand and gravel was furnished them by the plaintiff, but asserted by way of counterclaim, among other things, that the same was furnished under a contract whereby plaintiff agreed to furnish all sand and gravel necessary in the construction of a certain highway; that plaintiff breached such contract by refusing and failing to furnish the amount of gravel and sand agreed upon, and that as a result defendants were damaged in the sum of $510. Plaintiff denied that he had contracted as asserted by defendants, or that they were damaged as claimed. The issues presented upon the complaint, and upon the counterclaim, were submitted to the jury. The jury returned the following verdict:

"We the jury in the above entitled action find in favor of the plaintiff and against the defendants in said action and assess plaintiff's damages at the sum of $326, with interest at the rate of 6% from the 17th day of August 1922 until paid; and allow defendants sufficient sand and gravel to complete culverts and projects from plaintiff's new highway project for project now in progress between Carpio and Foxholm free of charge."

On motion to set aside the verdict, the trial court ordered that the italicized portion of the verdict be stricken out and permitted the remainder of the verdict to stand, and entered judgment thereon. For reasons stated in the opinion such ruling is held erroneous.

Appeal from the district court of Ward County, Meadville, J. Defendants appeal from the judgment and from an order denying a motion to set aside the verdict and order for a new trial.

Opinion of the Court by Christianson, J.

E. R. Sinkler, and G. O. Brekke of Minot, N. D., Attorneys for Respondent.

From Walsh County.
Lorne P. McEwen, Petitioner and Respondent, vs. Daniel McEwen, Cross-petitioner and appellant.
SYLLABUS:
1. A testator's domicile at the time of death determines the jurisdiction for primary original probate of his will.

Section 9772, C. L. 1913, provides that a will may be proved and admitted elsewhere than in North Dakota may be allowed and recorded in any county in which the testator at any time applies only in the case of a foreign will.

The record of a proceeding admitting a will to probate in a court of a foreign country, properly authenticated, prima facie establishes the jurisdiction of such foreign court, that is to say, that the sufficient was then attached.

controversy, the District has no discretion, but must enter a judgment in compliance with the decree of this Court.

2. However, where this Court does not put an end to the litigation, or does not finally determine all questions involved, and leaves certain matters open for the lower Court to consider and decide, the fact that the District Court departed from the mandate of this Court, does not render the judgment void, but only erroneous.

3. The instant case was remanded to the trial court for certain further proceedings. It was set for hearing; both parties appeared and evidence was adduced. The trial court made findings, conclusions and order for judgment. No appeal was taken from the judgment and no other proceedings had for the purpose of reviewing or correcting the same until more than six years after service of notice of entry thereof, when defendant moved the District Court to vacate the judgment. For reasons stated in the opinion, it is held that the District Court was correct in denying such motion.

Appeal from the District Court.

CLOSED BANK REOPENING IS TO BE GUARDED

Guaranty Fund Commission
Announces Restrictions on Cutting Deposits

Reopening of closed banks in North Dakota will not be permitted in cases where depositors are asked to accept a reduction in the amount of their deposits unless stockholders have paid in the double liability provided by statute and otherwise assured the Depositors Guaranty Fund Commission that depositors will be protected to the bank's full ability, the Guaranty Fund Commission announced today.

A resolution of the Commission said in part:

"The Commission hereby announces as a principle that no reopening of banks will be approved where depositors or creditors are requested to accept a reduction upon their claims, unless and until stockholders have paid in the full amount of their Double Liability, or shall produce satisfactory evidence to prove that such stockholders who have not so paid are financially unable to pay or secure their liability, and are execution proof, or that suits have been brought to enforce the payment of such double liability. Or in the cases of banks under special deposit order of the Commission, that a 100 percent assessment have been levied upon the stock of such bank by the Board of Directors, and that stockholders have paid in full such assessment, or satisfactory evidence produced that such stockholders are financially unable so to do, and are execution proof, or that appropriate action in court has been commenced to enforce the payment thereof against all delinquent stockholders.

"The intention and purpose of the Commission being, that no depositor or creditor shall be required to suffer loss until stockholders who are financially able shall have contributed the full stockholders liability under the law either by enforcement of an assessment of 100 per cent upon the stock, or the full amount of stockholders liability in the case of closed banks.

"The Commission further announces the principle—that in cases where permission may be granted for reopening of banks, where depositors and creditors have agreed to accept a reduction of their claims, that all charged off loans and other assets, and non-pledger assets of every description, shall be used to reimburse depositors and creditors upon that portion of their claims representing the amount thereof so reduced."

FORD ON DEM. TICKET IN MICH.

Detroit, Mar. 7.—A political paradox looms ahead of the presidential primary in the state on April 7, with the possibility of President Coolidge being the choice of the Republicans of the state and Henry Ford, whose "I am for Coolidge" proved a political sensation recently, being the Democratic choice.

A few days before Mr. Ford said: "I will not be a candidate against him on any ticket whatsoever." Ford petitions, circulated throughout the state were presented to the secretary of state as the candidate for the regular Democratic preferential choice. Having got this far, the Democratic leaders came to an abrupt halt with Mr. Ford's announcement that he was for Coolidge.

But they could not withdraw the name; as the law specifically states that only the candidate himself has the right, once the petitions are presented and accepted. To date, Mr. Ford has not withdrawn his name, and has given no inkling that he intends to do so. Thus the Democratic backers of Mr. Ford found themselves in the unenviable position of having agitated and consummated the candidacy of a man whose expressed sympathies are all with the opposition.

While President Coolidge has been named as the preference of Governor Alex J. Groesbeck and Bart D. Cady, chairman of the Republican state committee, United States Senator Frank W. Johnson has whipped an organization into shape, named his county and state managers, established his headquarters and named Michigan as a battle ground by making one of his first campaign speeches here. Johnson supporters recall that Michigan expressed its presidential preference for the California Senator in 1920 and they say that that favorable sentiment still exists.

A significant point in connection with Michigan's state politics is the almost lack of early discussion of issues. The Tenpot Dome disclosures created somewhat of a furore in Michigan political circles, mainly because they involved Edwin Denby, secretary of the navy, a Detroitite. The reaction in the case of Denby has been somewhat of a blotting out of political lines in going to the navy secretary's defense.

IRRIGATION PLANT BUILT

Slope Farmer Takes Initiative
in Project

F. W. Haas of Hazen, North Dakota, has constructed a dam across Brady Creek, a tributary of Knife River, and has just completed a diversion ditch to turn the water on his land and store the moisture in the soil before the crop is planted. Mr. Haas claims that irrigation by this method will double his crop yield.

In 1919 which was a dry season in western North Dakota Mr. Haas planted four acres of hahd in potatoes. The land had been flooded by backwater from the Knife River caused by an ice jam. The crop yielded 175 bushels per acre and sold for better than $2.15 per bushel, the entire crop bringing a cash return of $1,500.00 from four acres of land.

Mr. Haas is a consistent potato grower and he claims that last year's crop yielding 90 bushels per acre and selling at 35 cents per bushel has shown a profit over labor costs, taxes and interest on investment.
